

Why Not to Make Your Baby Sit

- Babies learn by watching adults, moving their body & making mistakes. An adult making a baby move takes away these methods of learning.
- Babies build strength in their bodies by repeatedly practicing movements. Adults moving the baby reduces chance for strengthening.
- By making your baby sit or walk, babies are neither learning or becoming strong. This often leads to delay in achieving milestones on time.

